ISU Student Ratings of Teaching

Students' constructive and specific feedback helps instructors to improve their teaching, which also improves student learning. While comments regarding what needs to change may come more readily, it is equally important to share successful elements of the class.

Your anonymous feedback will be shared with the instructor and the instructor's department chair only after final grades are submitted. To get started, click the red or green arrow for the survey(s) below.

Did You Know?

- Your survey results are anonymous!
- Every survey has a minimum number of students who must respond in order for instructors to receive a summary report. This further protects your anonymity.
- We encourage you to participate and help your university understand instructional effectiveness and plan continuous improvement initiatives.
